

Table of Contents

Disclaimer	5
Author's Preface	7
Introduction	19
CHAPTER 1 Purpose & Preparation	23
What is life?	23
What is health?	24
What is illness?	24
Natural illness	25
True chronic natural illness	26
False chronic illness	26
Acute short-lived natural illness	27
Unnatural illness	2V
Transformation of illness into health	29
Demands of the endeavor	30
Required practitioner attributes	30
The whole truth, and nothing but the truth	33
Individualize treat the person not the illness	35
Chronology of illness	38
Suspend judgment	38
Suspend speculation	41
CHAPTER 2 Trace the Portrait of the Person
—Track the Path of Illness	45
Exact expressions	48
Avoid missing vital information	49
What should be recorded?	49
Page Set Up	50
Look, listen and learn	52

Facial expression	52
Crossing a minefield	53
Observe record the voice of nature	55
Identify and reject misleading information	58
Unmask the malady	60
Quality time provides quality information	61
Good versus bad questions	62
Release the vital force	64
The plan of inquiry	65
Expressions of emotion in animals	69
Formulating questions pertaining to the mind	70
Summary of interview structure	76
Rare occurrence	78
Urgent acute illness patient examination	79

CHAPTER 3 Obstacles to Cure83

Identification of common obstacles to recovery	85
--	----

CHAPTER 4 Analyze the Portrait Apply the Perspective . . .95

Characteristics	95
Individualize	97
Discriminate between useful and useless symptoms	98
Essential portrait characteristics	99
The rational artistic case analysis method	104
Transformation procedure	105
A good marksman takes careful aim	106
Hahnemann's first sample case	107
Materia Medica—always the final arbiter	110
Hahnemann's second sample case	110

CHAPTER 5 The Science of Minimal Dosage.113
Medicine preparation method115
Proper quantity of medicine required116
Degree of vital force strength or weakness.118
Hazardous effects of too large dry doses.119
Centesimal potency scale dosing regimen120
Best time for chronic remedy dose.121
Best time for urgent acute illness dose.122
Useful centesimal potency guidelines.122
The LM potency scale.123
LM potency dosing regimen126
CHAPTER 6 The Vital Force Responds.127
Centesimal potency responses.128
Only exception to that rule.131
Negligent empiricism132
Indications of incorrectly selected remedy.132
Indications of too large dose of the correct remedy	.135
LM potency responses.136
Indications of too large LM doses.136
Chronic illness responses towards end of LM treatment137
Appearance of altered symptoms.137
Natural direction of cure.138
CONCLUSION.141
Bibliography.143
Author Biography.145
Index.147